

The 5 benefits of a customs warehouse solution

Navigating customs regulations is a challenging but necessary requirement for international shipping, often incurring large expenses and delays. Customs warehouses can reduce these challenges by bolstering your readiness around regulatory, tax, and trade issues. See how our customs warehouse solution can simplify your import/export strategy.

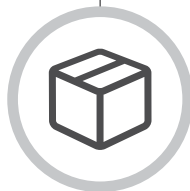

1. Tax concessions

Utilizing our customs warehouse can have a positive impact on your cash flow through deferred or exempt import taxes.

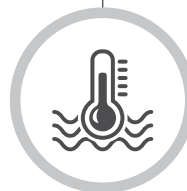

2. Long-term storage

Time-bound restrictions are removed for materials stored in our customs warehouse.

3. Quality preservation

We have the right facilities to support all molecules from early development all the way through to commercial manufacturing.

4. Integrated logistics services

Our UK customs warehouse is affiliated with transportation services, offering integrated logistics solutions.

5. Supply chain risk management

Our customs warehouse can create stability in your supply chain.

Thermo Fisher Scientific can fully support your global or regional import/export strategy with our customs warehouse facility and total transportation management services. Contact us to learn more.